SUSTAINABLE DESIGN FOR SOCIAL IMPACT

Born out of a partnership between a designer and the local magazine distributor we started in 2010 in order to create much needed employment in Eswatini, Southern Africa.

What began as an experiment in design for social impact has become a small thriving business with a solid community of local women artisans. We focus on developing new and innovative techniques using waste paper, wanting to change the perception of recycled materials.

Our jewellery offering currently has 5 collections, each one focusing on a particular technique that we have created. We started with the simple rolled paper bead, which we made our own by coating in gold, we then experimented with paper-wood which is made from layers of magazine glued by hand, and following that we merged brass and paper pulp, which turned into a best selling collection and introducing metal work to our studio.

Forever inspired by Swazi heritage we look to the past for knowledge and tell our own story, the way we know best.

PACKAGING, CARE AND MATERIALS

Bulk orders will be shipped in large fabric pouches. Labels and silicone backs are packed separately for each earring to avoid damage during transit and to keep shipping costs low. To attach the earrings onto the labels make 2 holes at the top with a needle and insert earring hook and close with earring backs to secure in place.

Our earrings are handmade using brass, which can tarnish in time. It is possible to clean naturally using vinegar or lemon. Soak cotton swabs and rub them against the jewelry for five minutes to clean.

The paper part of the jewelry has been varnished for durability making it water resistant, to clean you can wipe with damp cloth.

Store the jewelry pieces in a clean, dry place, away from direct sunlight.
